

Longtime Chrysalis supporter (and Hollywood's go-to executive style consultant) Andrew Weitz (CEO of The Weitz Effect) joined his gorgeous wife, Stacy Weitz (VP, corporate communications at PMK*BNC), for the evening's festivities. Since Andrew helps consult some of Hollywood's leading men about style, we thought we'd consult him about what to wear whether you're at evening summer soiree or a chic dinner party. For guys, Andrew suggests "a well tailored blazer with some texture that is lightweight and paired with slacks or a cotton pant, as well as a crisp white shirt and an elegant shoe (preferably brown)." He also adds that you can play around with accessories to give your guy's ensemble an extra pop (think pocket square, scarf, lapel pin, etc.). As for us ladies, you can never go wrong with a "summer cocktail dress that hits above the knee," and as Andrew points out, "a classy pump and rose gold accessories." And file this piece of advice under things that are oh-so-true-but-you-probably-never-noticed: You can never go wrong with various shades of blue, says Andrew (and it's true—check out his wife's color-perfect dress below!)
